

Miracle Worker, The Objective Mind

Questioner: The next question we have is related to the Objective Mind. Is there some statement or something you could give us as to what the main purpose of the Objective Mind is or what the main function?

The Council: Well, what is the purpose of God's creating you?

Questioner: To return.

The Council: Yes, but what was the purpose of him creating you originally? The Objective Mind is the closest extended arm of you as what God has created you. The Objective Mind is, that is even harder to put a definition to that would make it simple enough to be understood. The Objective Mind is a conscious level that oversees the plan of this particular lifetime. It orchestrates the functioning, shall we say, the functioning of the entire being. It also is the area of the soul or the entity that is able to perform beyond the natural activities of creation. In other words, if the Objective Mind wishes to become directly active in the physical world, in creation, it can work beyond the natural laws of creation. In other words, miracles are a direct activity of the Objective Mind in the material manifestation, because they seem to suspend natural law. Do you understand?

Questioner: Yes.

C: But even at that, even though it appears to suspend natural law or surpass natural law, in its activities and in a miraculous event there are laws by which it must work within the overall creation or law of creation or law of nature.

Questioner: It just goes against our understanding.

C: Well, that would be the simplest way of putting it. You don't understand or you don't know all the laws of nature, that is only half the story. There are laws of nature that you know, and there are laws similar to those that you know that you do not know yet or are not aware of yet, and yet there are laws governing nature that are part of natural law and those higher laws than the Objective Mind can utilize, say, when he is working in the healing mode, his Objective Mind is working very actively with another entity. They are conversing just as we are conversing now, only they converse at a level where there is no such thing as time, there is no such thing as a physical existence. They are conversing at a level that has nothing to do with the natural laws of creation, it surpasses that. It is in the realm that precedes the natural creation.

Questioner: The next question is similar to that when you were talking about the two Objective Minds in the healing sessions conversing, does this process occur when someone is giving a psychic reading for someone?

The Council: Most psychics are not able to reach that type of level, no. It can be done with exceptional psychics, but your run-of-the-mill neighborhood fortunetellers, no. If they do anything psychically, it is dealing basically with subconscious levels and what have you, a very low form of interrelationship. Objective Mind relationships are a very high, evolved form of relationships, correspondence with one another, social intercourse, what have you, and that type of thing, a very high degree, where most psychics hit the lower limits of the Subconscious Mind which does not have too much to offer other than immediate problems and not much of a solution there.

Questioner: What you are saying that Objective Minds communicating with each other, is that something that can happen normally without your being aware of it?

The Council: Oh yes, yes. Much of the interreaction and interrelationship that people have with one another starts initially with Objective Mind responses, correspondence or intercourse, whatever you care, conversational intercourse, spiritual intercourse, and we do not mean that in the sense of what you normally understand or refer to intercourse as. Conversational intercourse is basically what we are referring to is an exchange or interchange there. But this is all part, this is a normal activity of all souls, so this is not an exceptional thing, what becomes exceptional is when it is directly used or actively or consciously pursued and then it becomes a phenomenon.

Questioner: Yes, such as in the healing.

The Council: Yes. Now, that is a true phenomenon, that is a true psychic experience, because you are willfully reaching out. So you are learning then to control the higher aspects of your godly nature, which we might say is quite an exceptional feat when you take all things into consideration. Very well.

Questioner: Can you touch in with the Objective Mind through meditation and prayer?

The Council: Yes. Usually, that is the more natural or common way most people are able to reach up into their higher spiritual levels is through meditation and prayer. That in most instances or with most people is the only way that they can reach into the Objective Mind. This one [William LePar] is able to be set into the proper stage in order to do that at a conscious or willful level through hypnosis but the average person never even knows they reached the Objective Mind when they are in meditation or prayer because for a split second the Conscious Mind is raised, how shall we put it, it is raised to the Objective Mind for barely a split second and the amount of guidance that can be introduced at that time can appear to take a great deal of time, such as if one were to meditate for a half hour or so and they have trained themselves to immediately drop into a deep meditation and they have all manners of insight during that half hour period. Actually they reached up into the Objective Mind only but for a split moment of a second and it took that long for it to be realized in the Conscious Mind. Where in the healing project you have the opportunity of experiencing direct dealings with the Objective Mind the full length of that time but once you get into that area and you have deliberately or willfully pursued that area and reached it, you are not dealing in time as you experience it, you are dealing in experiences which are not governed by time or watch time or clock time. So, the time that he is there, that full time he is in your earthly time totally involved in the Objective Mind relationship, and if you could understand the magnitude of the Objective Mind, all of you would be just totally amazed at the miraculous event, and that in itself is a miraculous event. To be able to reach into the Objective Mind and actually know that someone is there and there for that length of time and working, for lack of better words, in a manner that appears consciously active to you as you observe it or as you observe it going on. But that is beside the point.
